SENATE MOVES SLOWLY WITH TARIFF BILL

LEADERS SAY IT WILL NOT BE UNDULY DELAYED

SCOFF AT REPORTS THAT IT WILL BE RELEGATED TO SCRAP HEAP

PREDICT THEY WILL HAVE IT
ON WAY TO WHITE HOUSE
BY CHRISTMAS

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Sept. 17.—(U.P.)—Little progress is being made in the senate on the tariff bill but administration leaders profess to have no fear that it will be unduly delayed or sidetracked indefinitely. They scoff at reports that it is scheduled sooner or later to be relegated to the legislative scrap heap and predict they will have it on the way to the White House by Christmas.

Chairman Reed Smoot of the senate finance committee told the United Press today he felt confident the measure would be passed by the senate before the regular session of congress opens in December.

"There will undoubtedly be differences in the bills passed by the senate and the house, but there are always differences in all important bills and I feel sure there will be no trouble about getting an agreement," said Smoot. "If the democrats believe the legislation is as iniquitous as they say, it would be to their political advantage to get the bill through as soon as possible."

"If they want to hold up the bill, the responsibility is theirs." Instead of seeking to delay the bill, many democrats have helped to speed its consideration. Five democrats joined with the administration group to prevent adoption of a resolution which would have sidetracked the tariff temporarily for the Vane case. Repeatedly Democratic Floor Leader Robinson has said the minority will content itself with an effort to change the bill. The farm bloc leaders like Senator Borah of Idaho, deny any attempt to filibuster.

The bill came under fire from the republican side yesterday when Senator Borah contended the bill gave industry tariff increases which were not needed. He asserted the republican party had broken its pledge to revise the tariff for the benefit of agriculture and argued the farmers' condition would be better under the proposed law than it is under the present tariff law.

Senator Reed, Rep., Pa., answered Borah, contending the bill gave the farmers all they asked and that individual industries like the textile group, were in dire need of further tariff protection. He defended the rates which Borah had attacked.

GOV. WALTER KOHLER WINS VICTORY OVER LA FOLLETTE LEADERS

Sheboygan, Wis., Sept. 17.—(U.P.)—Gov. Walter J. Kohler won a victory today over La Follette progressive leaders seeking to remove him from office when Judge James Wickham sustained the governor's demurrer to civil ouster suits.

The progressive faction charged Kohler with violating the Wisconsin corrupt practices act by excessive use of money in the primary campaign. They secured authorization of the attorney general to institute civil ouster suit against the governor.

Counsel for the governor challenged the corrupt practices law, which provides for removal of the governor by methods other than impeachment. Judge Wickham sustained the defense argument.

The La Follette faction is expected to appeal to the Wisconsin supreme court through the special state prosecutors.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 17.—(U.P.)—The 22-year-old marriage of Dr. Clarence Cook Little, retired president of the University of Michigan, and Mrs. Katherine Day Little, was dissolved today after Judge George W. Sample had signed a divorce decree.

Dr. Little, charging desertion, obtained the divorce without contest. Custody of the three children will be determined by an agreement.

At the hearing a month ago it was revealed that Dr. Little had put his entire fortune, $100,000, in a trust fund for his former wife and children.

Still Probing Alleged Shortage of $6,000 to $8,000 In State Hotel Inspection Bureau

WITTBECKER, HEAD OF DEPARTMENT ASKED TO RESIGN

HIS DAUGHTER, CHIEF CLERK OF BUREAU, NOW IN SAN-ITARIUM

ACCORDING TO FAMILY HAS SE-
CURED LAWYER TO REPRE-SENT HER IN INVESTIGATION

St. Paul, Sept. 17.—(U.P.)—Coincident with the continued investigations into the alleged $6,000 to $8,000 shortage in the state hotel inspection bureau came reports today that W. A. Wittbecker, 72-year-old head of the department had been asked by Henry Rines, state comptroller, to resign. The request was said refused.

At the same time it was learned that Wittbecker's daughter, Mrs. Mary F. Knispel, chief clerk of the bureau for the past 11 years, recently had retired to a sanitarium for a rest and according to Mrs. Wittbecker, has secured a lawyer to represent her during the investigations.

Rines, meanwhile, continued the probe into the alleged shortage which he said may have been caused by one of the clerks in the department over a period of two or three years.

The comptroller said he believed the alleged deficiency resulted when cash sums of $3.50 each sent in by hotel and restaurant proprietors for licenses, were withheld by someone in the bureau.

Mrs. Wittbecker was said to have called upon Rines for a broad investigation of the affair after she learned that her daughter's force was under investigation.

"My daughter's accounts always have been in order," she said, "and the public examiners will do well to broaden the scope of their inquiry to others who have worked in the department."

"She has nothing to fear and if she is wanted at any time she will be here."

Mrs. Wittbecker was asserted to have promised "some fireworks at the state capitol" if undue advantage was taken of her daughter.

Rines said while no one had been accused of the shortages, "we certainly will bring the guilty party or parties to justice, when we find enough evidence to make an arrest."

St. Paul, Sept. 17.—(U.P.)—Charging that "political irregularities" have played an important part in the conduct of the hotel inspection service of the Minnesota Board of Health, Mrs. W. A. Wittbecker today demanded "pitiless publicity" which she declared will clear the names of her daughter and husband of scandal in connection with the embezzlement of thousands of dollars from the department.

Meanwhile, Wittbecker carried his appeal from a demand for his resignation as chief of the hotel service $3.50 at a time.

May Run Again

Friends of Andrew J. Volstead are urging him to make the race for his former seat in congress, at the special election to be called by Governor Christianson to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Representative O. J. Kvale, of the Seventh Minnesota Congressional district.

direct to Governor Theodore Christianson. He refused to resign the post until after a conference with the governor.

In her charge that politics caused the irregularities, Mrs. Wittbecker said that "most of the employees with whom my husband and daughter were shackled obtained and held their jobs through political pull." The demand for Wittbecker's resignation, she said is a result of the "pointing the finger of suspicion at my daughter, Mrs. Mary Knispel, chief clerk in the office."

Irregularities of several thousand dollars were found in the books of the department, according to Henry Rines, state comptroller and public examiner, who was said to have demanded that Wittbecker resign.

"Although many of the clerks came to work drunk and were otherwise inefficient, my husband could not go over their political pull and discharge them," Mrs. Wittbecker said, "many mornings the girls in the office appeared in no condition to work and my daughter sent them home."

Mrs. Wittbecker disclosed that Mrs. Knispel has suffered a breakdown and is in a sanitarium. She was asked by the examiners not to return "until the audit is completed."

"None of the other employees was told this," Mrs. Wittbecker said, "and the singling out of my daughter points at her the finger of suspicion."

Rines announced the shortages in the department were between $6,000 and $8,000, all of which was stolen $3.50 at a time.

CRUISER QUESTION CONSIDERED AS REALLY SETTLED

BRITISH NAVAL CIRCLES CON-SIDERED AS TO PROGRAM OF PREMIER

PRIME MINISTER RAMSAY MAC-DONALD TO VISIT UNITED STATES

By KEITH JONES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

London, Sept. 17.—(U.P.)—With the cruiser question considered as practically settled, British naval circles were much concerned today with the extent to which Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald in his visit to Washington will be able to achieve a definite understanding on the abolition of submarines.

As analyzed by the government in its official statement, the proposed Anglo-American naval disarmament includes a specification that the United States and Great Britain agree to regard the total abolition of submarines as desirable.

The government's official clarification of the terms of the Anglo-American disarmament agreement was favorably received by the press today. The situation was authoritatively summarized as follows:

Both sides have accepted the proposition that Britain's cruiser strength by 1936 shall consist of 50 cruisers; including 15 eight-inch gun cruisers with a total tonnage of 146,800 tons, and 35 six-inch gun cruisers with a total tonnage of 200,200 tons.

As against such a fleet of cruisers, Britain maintains the United States would attain parity with 18 eight-inch gun cruisers, 10 six-inch gun cruisers of the Omaha type and five new six-inch gun cruisers, or a total of 33 cruisers. The United States, however, insists it needs 21 eight-inch gun cruisers to attain parity or a total cruiser tonnage of 315,000 tons. Just how the 30,000 tons which the three extra cruisers represent should be allotted, remains to be settled and constitutes the only point of difference between the United States and British demands.

MacDonald and Hoover, it was authoritatively stated, have agreed that there should be a downward curve in naval construction until 1936.

The morning newspapers today were unanimous in their conviction that the point of difference between the British and American demands was infinitesimal and that MacDonald would return from Washington with an agreement in his pocket.

SPECIAL ELECTION FOR SUCCESSOR TO O. J. KVALE

2 NEW NAMES ADDED TO SCORE OR MORE CANDIDATES IN FIELD

STATE REPUBLICAN LEADERS FAVORING JAMES HALL OF MARSHALL

St. Paul, Sept. 17.—(U.P.)—Two new names were added today to the list of a score or more of candidates who may compete in the coming special election for the right to succeed the late O. J. Kvale of Benson as representative in Washington from the Seventh Minnesota congressional district.

State republican leaders here indicated James Hall of Marshall, Minn., may be selected as their standard bearer. As a delegate to the national convention at Kansas City last year Hall cast his vote for Frank O. Lowden for president.

Another possible candidate was given as A. E. Anderson, strong farmer and elevator man of Cottonwood. He is chairman of the Minnesota Association of Farmers' Mutual Insurance Companies.

Paul Kvale, son of the late congressman, and Andrew J. Volstead, author of the national enforcement act, also have been mentioned as candidates.

12 DEAD AND SCORES INJURED IN COAL MINE BLASTS

Strasbourg, Sept. 17.—(U.P.)—Twelve persons were dead and scores suffered from serious injuries today as a result of a series of explosions in the Petite Roselle coal mines near here.

Twelve miners were still buried in the ruins today and the rescue workers strove to clear the debris and release the victims.

The first explosion occurred last evening and flames swept the mines, trapping scores of workers in shafts and impeding rescue crews. Villagers rushed to the scene of the disaster. The fire continued to rage as the night wore on. On Sunday there had been an explosion in the Fame mines, killing three workers and injuring five others.

Saarburcken, Germany, Sept. 17.—(U.P.)—Total casualties from a series of explosions and fire in the Little Roselle coal mine mounted today to 20 dead, 31 injured, and three missing.

Rescue workers proceeded with great caution because of the danger of additional explosions.

WOODS, HAMLETS RAVISHED BY COAST BLAZE

SUNDAY BILLOWS LADEN WITH CINDERS HANG OVER ORE-GON COUNTRYSIDE

TURN DAY INTO NIGHT, MENACE
TO MOTORISTS AND PEDES-TRIANS

By JAMES S. SHEENEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Portland, Ore., Sept. 17.—Smoke, thick, heavy, blinding—like a London fog—hung over a area within a 250-mile radius menace continued to ravish woods and hamlets.

Smudgy billows, laden with cinders, settled over the country, turning day into night and reducing visibility to a minimum. It stretched like a dark grey blanket—a menace to motorists and pedestrians.

The great fires that all but ate into the towns of Estacada, Ore., and Yacolt, Wash., sent ashes and cinders pouring into Portland. Tiny white ashes—that gave automobile tops the appearance of having passed through a fine-flaked snowstorm. They floated lazily into homes and whirled into open window street cars.

For days the air has been fouled with acrid smoke that irritates the eyes and throat to the point of inflammation.

The sun, a faint disc of orange, tried vainly to peer through. Humidity was low—extremely low—and the minimum temperature ranged between 82 and 88 degrees.

Rain alone can stifle the fires and clear the air. No measurable precipitation has fallen since June 19 19 and the harassed weatherman offered no hope of a downpour to quench the parched lips of the fire demons.

Only a providential change in the wind saved Yacolt, Wash., from destruction late Monday. The path of the fire was down the Lewis river on toward Yacolt, where it was said to have come within three blocks of the business center. Flames leaped across the river leading into the little town as inhabitants jumped into every available vehicle and fled for their lives.

At Estacada, Ore.—east of here—the fire roared menacingly in the Cascade foothills five miles above the town. Ranchers saw their homes destroyed and 200 firefighters were trapped for a time when the fire turned its course with a change of the wind.

Women and children joined in a valorous attempt to check the flames, after they had been forced to abandon their homes. They sighed in relief when the wind changed its course and temporarily at least, spared the town.

By BEN E. TITUS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Portland, Ore., Sept. 17.—Although God-sent changes of wind appeared today to have saved two towns from destruction by forest fires, the red demon burned on and on to new forests, leaving behind it only ashes and blackened stumps.

Eleven human lives have been taken while farm houses, schools, mills and hundreds of thousands of acres of proud, green fir trees have been swept away.

The loss of animal life, cattle, horses, dogs, deer and all the small animals of the woods was uncounted but known to be appalling. As for the loss in dollars, no one can even estimate it, although it is known that it will run into many millions.

The little towns of Estacada in Clackamas county, Ore., and Yacolt in Clark county, Washington, both in the vicinity of Portland, were believed safe today. Changes of wind direction saved them during the night.

But in each were hundreds of fugitives, farmers and their families and the pitiful little wagons and trucks in which they fled, taking a few precious belongings in their dash from death.

News received at St. Helens, Ore., last night of the death Sunday of Anglo Galligani, who was killed when struck by a falling, burning snag, swelled the death toll in Oregon and Washington to 11.

Santa Paula, Cal., Sept. 17.—(U.P.)—A forest fire of major proportions was eating its way through Santa Paula, canyon today, having already done damage estimated at $2,000,000.

The blaze which started near Santa Paula Mineral Springs, had blackened more than 7,000 acres on a two-mile front. Oil wells in the Ojai region were fired by the flames.

Approximately 500 men were on the fire line.

Estacada, Ore., Sept. 17.—(U.P.)—This town, threatened for two days by forest fires which rushed down the Clackamas river valley, was believed safe today.

Absence of wind during the night gave the 700 men fighting the blaze a chance to back fire and the flames had been driven back until at no point today were they closer than two miles of the town.

MEALS FOR WARM DAYS

A well-chilled platter with thinly sliced meat, which may be beefsteak, if very thinly sliced and served with a tasty sauce, makes a most appetizing meal. There may be a few slices of cold roast lamb to accompany the steak or veal and trimmed with well-seasoned potato salad, and one has a ready meal.

All cold meat should be sliced very thin and arranged with care and proper garnishment to make it attractive. Cream cheese with chopped nasturtium leaves to give pungency, made into balls and dropped around the platter with a few fresh nasturtium leaves and a blossom or two, will make an appealing dish on a hot day.

Various fish may be served in the same way. A can of salmon, tuna, a can of shrimps and one of smoked sardines with bits of lemon and parsley arranged on a chilled chop plate or platter will make another appealing dish.

Icebox Cookies.—These are fine to have ready to serve with tea, punch or as a dessert with fruit. Sift five and one-half cups of flour, one teaspoonful of soda, three times. Take one and one-half cups of melted shortening, one cupful each of brown and white sugar, cream well, add three beaten eggs and eight squares or less of baker's chocolate, melted. Mix and roll in two or three short rolls. Place in the icebox over night. In the morning slice the cookies not too thin. Place on baking sheets and bake quickly. This recipe makes six dozen. Nuts may be added or one-half nut meat placed on each cookie.

Bananas are delicious served with crushed fresh currants or currant juice well sweetened poured over them.

Put ripe peaches through a fruit press, add honey to sweeten, or a lemon squeezer and serve as a fruit cup topped with whipped cream.

Revival Campaign Continues

Rev. Jackson spoke last night at the Full Gospel Assembly on "Worshipping God in Spirit and in Truth," he stated that there was too much form of worship and not enough heart worship and that before we could expect God to work as He would like to, that we would have to worship according to the Bible pattern.

There will be another divine healing service tonight and the sick will be prayed for. Several have testified that they have been definitely helped through prayer in these services.

HONOR FAITHFUL CHURCH MEMBER

Sunday School and Congregation of Bethlehem Lutheran Church
Honor Anton Gilbertson

A birthday party was given for Anton Gilbertson last evening by the Sunday school and congregation of the Bethlehem Lutheran church in the church assembly rooms.

Mr. Gilbertson has served as a member of various church boards and has been an officer in almost every branch of the church work. His friends wished to take this opportunity to show their gratefulness for his services.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbertson were told that there was a Sunday school meeting at the church and when they arrived, escorted by several friends, they found a surprise gathering of about 200 friends. Their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Green of Duluth were also in attendance much to the surprise of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbertson.

The following program was given: vocal solos by Borghild Olson and Marion Olson, piano solo by Rose Gudmunson, two vocal selections by Rev. J. R. Michaelson accompanied by Miss Thelma Reis at the piano and piano solo by Borghild Olson.

Rev. Michaelson made a short talk in presenting Mr. Gilbertson with a purse of money in token of good will and friendship and Mr. Gilbertson responded.

The rooms were decorated with fall branches and leaves, garden flowers, and roses. A birthday cake with 74 candles upon it formed the centerpiece of the table. A luncheon was served and the remainder of the evening spent in a social way.

SLIGHT DISORDERS AT POLLING PLACES IN PITTSBURGH ELECTION

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 17.—(UP)—Slight disorders at polling places, the arrest of two men, and a court reprimand of Police Inspector James N. Hoey for entering the Hill district voting places with four other policemen, marked today's primary election in Pittsburgh.

Thousands of voters went to the polls to cast their votes for one of the three candidates for the republican nomination for mayor in the face of a court order declaring them ineligible to vote because of illegal assessment.

LABORERS HELD UP AND ROBBED IN BOX CAR; ONE WOUNDED

Minneapolis, Sept. 17.—(UP)—Guy Downing, itinerant laborer, was brought to General hospital today, suffering from a bullet wound received when he and nine companions were held up in a box car and robbed of $100 while enroute here from the South Dakota harvest fields. Because he failed to move quickly the bandit shot Downing in the neck, wounding him critically. The nine other men brought him to the hospital.

Fashions for the Smart Woman

UNUSUAL YOKE

The smartly tailored coat frock, in its many versions, has a well-earned place in every woman's wardrobe, for it is always ready to go on a shopping expedition, and yet is perfectly suitable for the less formal afternoon occasions. This season it appears in canton crepe, wool crepe, or fine repp. An unusual yoke is a distinctive feature of the model shown here, a yoke which simulates revers. The sleeves are long and snug, with pointed, tight-fitting cuffs. Groups of buttons accent the side closing, and, of course, the frock manages to wear a trim belt.

Wear a Forget-Me-Not Saturday

THE slogan of the Disabled American Veterans for whose benefit Forget-Me-Nots will be sold on the streets of Brainerd on Saturday, September 21, is "Service of, by and for Disabled Veterans."

Its one and only purpose is to protect and advance the interests of disabled ex-service men. It particularly strives to assist those veterans who do not know how to help themselves. This is accomplished through its legislative and liaison service and by its cooperation with other service organizations and agencies.

The D. A. V. is a national organization of disabled American veterans of the World War officially recognized by Congress as the spokesmen of disabled men. Only veterans who were wounded, injured, gassed or disabled by reason of serving under their country's flag are eligible for membership. It maintains a national administrative office in Cincinnati, Ohio, from which it issues a fine ex-service men's publication, the National D. A. V. Semi-Monthly, giving full information to its members and all disabled veterans, relative to the complicated provisions of the laws and regulations governing the administration of the Veterans Bureau.

It maintains a legislative and rehabilitation committee office in Washington, D. C., with liaison assistants for the purpose of presenting particularly difficult claims to the Director's Advisory Group and to the Director, and for the purpose of lobbying for legislation sorely needed on behalf of ex-service men from time to time.

It also maintains trained full time Liaison Officers in each of the Regional Offices of the Veterans Bureau throughout the country and has part time volunteer service officers in every governmental hospital and in many of the larger towns in every state throughout the nation. Those service officers assist individual veterans in preparing affidavit evidence and in getting their claims ready for presentation and adjudication by the Veterans Bureau Claims and Rating Boards.

That the legislative and liaison service furnished by the Disabled American Veterans is a necessary and valuable aid to the government in taking care of the problems of disabled men is indicated by a statement made by C. D. Hibbard, Regional Manager of the U. S. Veterans Bureau at the Ft. Snelling office. Mr. Hibbard says, "The Veterans Bureau is unlike any other governmental Bureau in that it handles the problems of human beings rather than those pertaining merely to property; consequently innumerable complications in the interpretation and application of the law affecting the claims of thousands of worthy veterans are continually arising."

An Overburdened Commission

WHETHER it is possible to reduce the heavy load Congress has put upon the Interstate Commerce Commission and facilitate in the interest of the business public the regulation of transportation is a question for which a subcommittee of the Railroad Committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States is attempting to find an answer.

The 11 Commissioners, it has been pointed out, on an average each voted on 2,829 matters involving the exercise of discretion last year—9 a day for six working days a week. This is exclusive of a multitude of other matters not entered in the records. The opinions entered in cases decided aggregated 11,729 pages—15½ volumes of 750 pages each.

The record of a single investigation undertaken by direction of Congress already has reached 104,388 pages, and is not yet completed. Every year Congress by resolution calls for more inquiries.

With the advent of motor and air transportation the task of regulation will become even more formidable. What can be done, with the aid of business, to simplify it and enable the Commission to accomplish more effectively the purposes for which it was created is the aim of the National Chamber's Committee.

Babeck is Fairminded

THE Fairmont Sentinel has gone slow in taking sides in attempts at controversy over Commissioner Babeck's highway program. The paper believes that the commissioner has proven by a good many years operation of the trunk highway system that he views all its problems from a state-wide viewpoint and that both the north and south ends of the state are wrong in raucous claims that the other end of the state is getting the better break.

As rapidly as funds will permit the trunk highway system is being permanently built and paved. Political and other interference, is harmful rather than helpful in determining what sections shall be first served.

Let's leave it to Babeck. Give him money enough and our particular, pet paving project will be reached in logical order. And let it not be forgotten that most of the essential paved routes would now be accommodating traffic if the people of Minnesota had not heretofore denied bond issues for the purpose, and wasted a heap of highway funds as a result.

Coaches Carry Years Well

SOME coaches certainly carry their age well. Alonzo Stagg, for instance, has been coach in football for years with Chicago University.

James A. Ten Eyck, nearly 80, is coach of the Syracuse university crew and recently rowed 20 miles in company with his son and then walked two miles to pick berries. The next day he again rowed 20 miles.

A BROKEN back is not necessarily fatal. Arthur F. Day of Sergeant, Ky., has lived for the past three years with a broken back and spine, sustained in a fall of slate in a mine. Although the doctor examining him told him he had but a short time to live, Day's remarkable vitality has carried him along three years after the accident.

THIRTY-FIVE hundred commercial and military airplanes, valued at $25,000,000, were produced in the United States during the first six months of this year, the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America reported at its meeting held in Cleveland.

It is now claimed that flea circuses are fakes. However, anyone harboring a flea will know the insect has high jumping skill and according to size can excel anything in the acrobatic line.

CLARENCE HOLDEN CHOSEN TO LEAD CLASS OF '30 IN YEAR'S ACTIVITIES

ROSS OLMSTED, OBERT BENSON
AND CLAUDE HOLDEN GET OTHER POSTS

Clarence Holden was chosen, at the Senior meeting, Friday afternoon, to lead the Senior class, and in order to put the entire burden on Clarence's shoulders, Ross Olmsted, vice-president; Obert Benson, secretary; Claude Holden, treasurer, were elected to help carry out the year's activities. The class wishes to congratulate Clarence on his election.

The class decided it was impossible to go through a year's work without some advice from a teacher, so, in order to overcome this difficulty, it selected Miss Tornstrom, principal, and Mr. Kasch, assistant principal. It has been understood that one of the hardest things Seniors must admit is that they need an adviser, for they are capable of knowing everything.

The vote for president was cast twice, the first vote gave a decided plurality but not a majority for one, but the second balloting was very decisive. It was very hard to get a majority of the class there, but after much deliberation a sufficient number gathered together.

Miss Tornstrom said a few words to the effect that one should not vote for a person that he likes best personally, or that he has been advised to vote for, but vote for the one he thinks is capable of leading the class in the most efficient manner.

With the election over, the Seniors will dive into activities immediately. The first meeting under the new executive will be this week, at which the selection of the class ring will be an important item of business.

TEACHERS' VACATIONS SPENT IN MANY WAYS

All parts of the United States and some places in Canada were visited by teachers who taught here last year and who have returned again, during the summer vacation. Miss Tornstrom went on a canoe trip that took her to Hunters' Island, Canada. She was accompanied by seven others, all of whom except two, her brother and sister, were graduates of Brainerd high. She says she had the most delightful time of her life. Miss Herwig, staff advisor, spent the summer doing the work she is so fond of. She was assistant to the editor at the Minnesota State Historical society and helped check and revise Dr. Folwell's fourth volume of Minnesota history.

Mr. Johnson went on a tour of seven states: Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio and Pennsylvania during the first part of vacation. After that he made several smaller trips, and, as a climax to a very pleasant summer, he was put in a hospital in Duluth, where he remained for eight days.

Miss Graham spent the first part of the summer at home, but went to Yellowstone National Park for ten days during the latter part of vacation. She saw many wonderful things and had a delightful time. Miss Spencer also went through Yellowstone Park on her way home from Seattle, Wash., where she visited for a month. The rest of the holidays she spent at some of the nearby lakes.

Miss Haug, whose home is in Buckston, N. D., made several small trips, one to the Twin Cities, one to Northfield and many other lesser ones. Miss Lord, of St. Paul, spent some time in Milwaukee, but had a more enjoyable vacation camping at Lake Francis with a group of friends.

Miss Mathis, of Excelsior, Miss Brattvet, of Kenyon, Miss Olson from Scandinavia, Miss Mrs. Fleming, Brainerd, and Miss Schow, of St. Paul, spent their summers at home, or making short trips through the country near their homes. Miss Taylor spent all but two weeks at her home in Villard, Minn. The other two weeks was spent in Minneapolis.

Miss Laipple traveled both east and west. She spent eight weeks at school in Ann Arbor, Mich., and a week in North Dakota. Her home is in Iowa. Onpawee Lodge, Lake Clearwater, was Miss O'Brien's home for the summer.

Mr. La Meter was at home for three days, at Gull Lake for a month, and two weeks in Chicago, and the rest of the time he was here. Mr. Kasch attended the University of Minnesota for a part of the summer and studied football tactics the rest of the time.

But Miss Ruthe had the best vacation of them all. She spent it in a hospital where she was operated on for gonorrhea.

High School Orchestra Plans Eventful Year

The orchestra, this year, is looking forward to an eventful year. Miss Rickard wishes for a large personnel as many future activities are in store. Through graduation a number of important musicians were lost, but we hope to replace them with others equally good. Rehearsals, practices will be posted in both schools so that everyone may see them. Any one playing an instrument is requested to join the orchestra to help make this year and the coming years successful.

CAMPFIRE GIRLS HOLD CAMP AT CLEARWATER

Nature has a habit of forcing upon us a number of those dreamy, irresponsible, idyllic days during which all the cares of the world are left behind and the girls are free to enjoy the forests of scented pine—or something like that—and so it happened that during this period of human journeying a large number of Camp Fire girls traveled gaily out to Lake Clearwater where they camped for a week.

The girls were divided into two groups; the first went from July 21 to July 28 and the second group from July 28 to August 4.

As they are a very energetic group, the girls show advancement along a number of lines in spite of the hot weather.

Almost all the girls won all the honors given at camp. There were classes in nature study, camp craft, and handicraft, besides the more enjoyable pastimes, which included boating, fishing, and swimming.

The girls are already laying plans to return next year, for they have decided that there is no better method of securing comfort and satisfaction during the hot weather than camping.

Mr. Penrose to Advise Hi-Y Club for Year

The Hi-Y club held its first meeting of the year last Wednesday night at 7 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. for the purpose of discussing the plans for this year's activities.

The meeting was presided over by Clarence Holden, the new president, with the assistance of Joe Heald, vice president, Claude Holden, secretary, and Carl Holvick, treasurer; all of whom are newly installed officers. Mr. Peterson, of the Y. M. C. A. as usual advised the boys in making some of their decisions and Mr. Penrose, who will be the club's adviser for this year, was also present.

The club decided to buy a number of pencils which beside having high grade lead in them will have the basketball schedule printed on the side for quick reference. These pencils may be obtained from certain club members for ten cents apiece as soon as they arrive.

The boys also discussed admitting new members into the club and providing for associate members at a later date.

The meeting adjourned at eight twenty-five, after Zane Smith, Roger Kleven, and Dick Ebert were appointed to serve on the entertainment and food committee for the next meeting.

The sophomore class this year, which last year was a large freshman class, has diminished greatly in numbers. Although many fell by the wayside, the people who are left are talented and have a large berth on the honor roll.

The sophomores are required to take modern history, biology and English 2. Elective subjects include: bookkeeping, Caesar, geometry, and mechanical drawing.

Mr. Kasch states that the sophomore football material is very good. There are fourteen men out for practice at the present time and he hopes for more to present themselves. He believes that at least a part of this sophomore material should soon be used on the regular football team.

The class expects to organize within a few weeks and is planning a year filled to the brim with work and play.

MISS TAYLOR AGAIN LEADS FRENCH CLUB

Le Cerle Francis, which has been such a progressive organization in past years, will be organized this week with the able assistance of Miss Taylor, adviser.

All French students are eligible for membership, although people taking French I may not be nominees in the coming election of officers.

The second year students confidently believe that a goodly number of the 34 French I people will remain in the club after the initiation, to which every prospective member is the helpless victim.

JUNIORS TO ELECT NEW OFFICERS TONIGHT

Today at 3:40 the Juniors are holding an exciting election of officers for the school year, 1929-30. Nominees for the important positions are:

President—Gerald Cass, Arden Miller, Muiisto Pohola.
Vice President—Alice Nolan, Louise Clauson, Jean Cass.
Secretary—Mary Hawkins, Janet Kamppan, John Lind.
Treasurer—Arlene Hagberg, Stuart Patterson, Edman Jernberg.
Advisors—Miss O'Brien, Miss Olson, Mr. Penrose, Miss Laipple.

YE EDITOR

Perhaps you have noticed the blank spaces at the head of our sheet and wondered why the Brainerdian staff is not printed in that space. The reason for this is a change in policy which puts staff positions on a competitive basis for the first part of the year. As long as the staff appointments are not permanent, competition is aroused between staff members and better writing is the result. As soon as the writing of some of the members becomes definitely superior to that of others, the permanent staff positions can be announced and will appear with each issue of the Brainerdian.

QUESTIONNAIRES GIVEN TO SOCIAL CLASSES

Students of Brainerd high school are seriously annoyed by hypocritical persons or those who are boisterous, noisy, and rude, according to "Know Thyself" questionnaires which each individual senior filled out in Social Problems classes last week. The upperclassmen expressed themselves as being fond of old friends although many of them liked to cultivate new acquaintances. Only a few were happy in their own company and the vast majority declared that they could get along with most people.

The seniors felt, on the whole, that they were rather thrifty, although one or two frankly confessed that they were affected with the inability to save money. Virtually all of them denied that they were influenced by their "crowd" and affirmed stoutly that they could keep their heads in emergencies. Some like best to lead, but the majority prefer to do the work if the leadership is good.

It is surprising to note the number of seniors who have artistic ambitions. They wish to be musicians or music teachers, actors, interior decorators, style experts, and photographers. These ambitions are by no means limited to the girls in the class, but almost all the boys are commercially, industrially or scientifically inclined. One girl in the group is interested in aviation but the boys have swamped that field with their hopes. Girls as well as boys wish to be radio announcers, lawyers, doctors, detectives, nurses and journalists.

At the close of the year similar questionnaires will be given to ascertain whether or not the seniors have changed their attitudes toward themselves and the world about them after taking a course in Social Problems.

What Does This Mean

Last week we wrote "Walter Huston" instead of "Wilbur Huston" the boy wizard. So far, no one has called our attention to the error. Is the world becoming more tolerant of us, or have we less readers than last year?

We note with disappointment that the clock in the city hall assembly has started stopping again. That reminds us of a Scotch joke which we are not going to tell.

BRAINERD HIGH TO MEET STAPLES HIGH IN FIRST GRID BATTLE

GIRLS' GLEE CLUBS TO ORGANIZE THIS WEEK

Under the direction of Miss Rickard, the high school Glee clubs will get under way some time this week. All prospective members are urged to report for tryouts. As usual there will be a three part chorus consisting of all the older girls with vocal talents. This is considered the best in the school. A second club will be organized for girls with one year or more of high school musical experience. There will also be an organization for Freshmen girls and for girls of any other class who enter Glee club work for the first time.

"I hope," stated Miss Rickard, "that by the end of this week I shall have all of the clubs well organized and that they will be ready to start actual singing in about one week."

"It is my hope," she continues, "to have Glee club work taken in actual class periods as one hour a week is not nearly enough time to accomplish half of what is supposed to be done. In the music room of the new school this will be accomplished, I hope."

New Instructors Greet High School Students

Readers of the Brainerdian may be present our new instructors? Since ladies are still first in spite of "Wimmin's Rights," allow us to introduce Miss Ella Öertling of White Bear, Minnesota, a former teacher of Brainerd high school, who has returned to teach English to the freshmen. Next in line we find Miss Torgerson of Madison, Wisconsin, a graduate of the University of Minnesota, busily engaged in teaching bookkeeping after receiving experience at Appleton. Miss Helen Farrankop also a Minnesota graduate and a former science instructor at Chisholm is the present general science teacher. Then too, there is our latest acquisition in the form of Miss Lucille Walkup, a Minnesota alumnus, who has charge of certain English and history classes.

And now for the men! Mr. Richard Penrose, a graduate of Iowa State Teacher's college, is holding forth in modern and American history and is the Senior Hi-Y leader. Finally there is Mr. Rolf Melby, a St. Olaf college product who instructs Brainerd high school students in general science. We know he is athletic but we neglected to ask him whether or not he was a member of the famous college choir. One of our reporters will be on the job however the minute he hears Mr. Melby sing.

Capt. Hautala Predicts Good Football Season

The Brainerd high school is confronted with a hard football schedule this year, the opening game being with Staples on Friday, Sept. 20th there.

I am looking forth to a successful and enjoyable season because of such a large turn out of candidates and the good sport shown by everyone. Everyone is trying hard for a position, for no one has clinched a position as yet.

The freshmen have 14 candidates which is the best turnout of freshmen that the school has ever had. This will help them in the future to make the team.

ARTHUR HAUTALA

JR. HI-Y ORGANIZES THURSDAY AT Y.M.C.A.

The first meeting of the Junior Hi-Y was held last Thursday evening at the Y. M. C. A.

The meeting was called to order by President Drexel Geist. There were 17 members present, 11 of whom are new members this year.

A short talk was given by Mr. Peterson who stated the ideas and principles of the Junior Hi-Y.

The Older Boys' conference, which is to be held either in Hibbing or Fergus Falls, was discussed. Ways and means of sending representation to this conference constitute a serious problem.

The new members this year are: Robert Crust, Leonard Odenthal, Robert Jackson, Warner Odenthal, James Falconer, Allen McKay, Gerald Lien, Howard Zander, Bruce Paine, Robert Ebert, and Myles Hall.

The Seniors will now very graciously permit the Juniors and Sophomores classes to proceed with their organization, but the verdant Freshmen must wait another four weeks before organizing. The Juniors, especially, have a busy year ahead of them. When they need advice, let them consult the experienced Seniors.

We wish to acknowledge one exchange thus far received that of the first edition of "Pine Tree Post" of the Bemidji high school. It is a mimeographed paper of ten pages with sections devoted to news, sports, jokes, editorial, and literary material. It appeared September 11.

STUDENTS URGED TO SUPPORT TEAM BY ACCOMPANYING TEAM

Brainerd High's athletic activities officially open this coming Friday when the Blue and White warriors of the gridiron journey down to Staples and face their first opposition in a stiff nine-game schedule.

What does not mean, fellow-students? It means that the roster club is to come out in full strength and cheer their team on to victory. Let's see you take the whole Staples bleachers and show our foes that there's good backing and thus displaying the "never die" spirit.

Finishing touches are being put on the team these last few days and according to Coach Kasch, "Brainerd is going to be a hard nut to crack." Last Saturday afternoon the team scrimmaged a bunch of former high school players and gained valuable experience in the execution of their plays.

Although certain positions need polishing, a good fighting eleven should be seen when the first kick-off of the 1929 season comes this week end.

Staples is rated as having a team on par with that of last year's but to offset this Brainerd seems to have a group that is in better condition than the team that met Staples last season.

HIGH SCHOOL BOASTS ENROLLMENT OF 663

The official count for the end of the second week numbers the Brainerd high school students as 663, the largest enrollment ever. Lack of a proper building does not seem to deter any from attending and the general idea seems to be that the Old Court House, like a London omnibus, always has room for one more. From the enrollment one can see that many start out with high hopes and then drop by the way before they reach the Senior year. The freshman class has a peculiar combination that it has only two more girls than boys so evidently, this class cannot be run by petticoat government.

The following shows the size of the classes:

Seniors—Boys 33, girls 49, total 82.
Juniors—Boys 68, girls 78, total 146.
Sophomores—Boys 51, girls 83, total 134.
Freshmen—Boys 151, girls 153, total 304.
Total—Boys 303, girls 363, total 666.

The Nameless Column

The members of Miss Brattvet's fourth period assembly were entertained last Thursday by a concert of close harmony at the New Brainerd hotel. The source of the melodious outburst seemed to be a man, a woman and a "come-to-me-go-from-me." The entertainers played and sang some of the old favorites such as, "Till We Meet Again," "On a Bicycle Built for Two," and "I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles."

The Senior election was a noteworthy one. There were only five more ballots cast than there were people present.

The report goes around that Sox Severson is on his third set of books for the year.

Ninety-three more days before the "Girl Grads" start appearing!—Once a teacher of this school was handed a girl's grad and told to write in it. After it had lain around for a week he started to do so and when he was almost through with it, he spoke to one of his students, saying, "How does the old phrase go about still waters? Is it 'deep water blows still'?"

Mark and Hugh Patterson, class of 1927 and 1928 respectively, will return to Macalester for another year of college life. Mark made a flying trip to Seattle this summer and is now catching his breath before journeying to St. Paul.

"No, replied the studious one, 'that does not make sense.'"

"Ha!" replied the teacher, "what need for sense? This is a girl grad!"

Joe Heald must be a pessimist. He came to school Monday morning wearing both suspenders and a belt.

Miss Taylor (in American history class) when was the radio first used? John Lind: In 1775.
Miss Taylor: In 1775? How so?
John: That was the time Paul Revere broadcast with only one plug.

Mr. Kasch's fifth and sixth period business training classes have proved so popular that it has become necessary to provide a class the second period to take care of the overflow.

SPEARS SETTLES DOWN TO SELECTING THUNDERING HERD

SQUAD OF 102 CANDIDATES ON THE GRIDIRON

IS LARGEST OPENING DAY TURNOUT IN UNIVERSITY'S HISTORY

GREAT UNSETTLED PROBLEM IS WHERE TO PLACE BRONKO NAGURSKI THIS YEAR

Minneapolis, Sept. 17.—(UP)—A squad of 102 candidates, the largest opening day turnout in the university's history today was increased by a smattering of late arrivals as Dr. C. W. Spears settled down in earnest to the selection of Minnesota's 1929 edition of "The Thundering Herd."

Whether Bronko Nagurski, Coach Spears' 215-pound candidate for All-American honors, will remain in the Gopher line, where he was stationed in Monday's first practice session, still appeared the great unsettled problem of the Minnesota coaching staff.

Lack of veteran material and absence of strong Sophomore prospects in the line were given as the reasons that Nagurski will remain at tackle during most of the season. If the pulverizing Pole is placed to strengthen the forward wall, then Art Phamer, flashy open field runner, or Clarence Munn, former Minneapolis high school star, will fill the fullback berth.

However, many spectators at Monday's drill were united in the opinion that Dr. Spears will find a pair of capable tackles in Pulrabek, Kakela, Berry, Emlein, Krezowski or Stafford and Nagurski will be returned to his "natural" position at full.

Nine lettermen are available for the four backfield positions and Doc Spears has shown no great worry over that department. Tackle and ends are classed as his greatest problems.

Of the 17 Minnesota lettermen, 16 were expected to report at the morning and afternoon practices today. Harold Barnhart, veteran halfback, was reported enroute here from his home in Washington, and expected to arrive Wednesday.

MAN FATALLY WOUNDED IN CLEANING GUN

DEAD ARE LAMBERT SCHULTE, ST. PAUL AND JOE MOLLERS, LAKEVILLE

FEARED DEATH TOLL WILL GO HIGHER AS DUCKS ARE ABUNDANT

St. Paul, Sept. 17.—(UP)—The toll in the Northwest's scarcely opened duck hunting season mounted to two dead and two wounded today following the opening of the hunt Monday.

One man was shot to death in the pursuit of ducks, another was fatally wounded cleaning his gun and two youths were seriously injured by the guns of companions.

The dead were: Lambert Schulte, 50, St. Paul, shot while hunting in central Minnesota. Joe Mollers, Lakeville, Minn., the gun cleaning victim.

Stanley Lee, 13, Eau Claire, Wis., shot in the head and seriously wounded by a companion. Milford Graham, 16, Devils Lake, N. D., wounded in the leg, also by a companion.

It was feared the death toll would go higher since ducks were abundant and a record number of hunters were in the marshes and passes.

11TH DIST. SPORTS OFFICIALS TO PLAN YEAR'S PROGRAM

BRAINERD SELECTED AS MEETING PLACE FOR COUNCIL PLANNING ACTIVITIES

EIGHT ADDITIONAL TOWNS ADDED TO DISTRICT; EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE MEETS TODAY

After lunching at the Ransford this noon the three members of the executive committee of the Eleventh Athletic district council met to formulate plans for the annual meeting of the council to be held in Brainerd in the very near future. The members of the committee were Supt. F. E. Lurtin of Aitkin, Supt. Earl C. Van Dusen of Little Falls and Supt. W. C. Cobb of Brainerd.

Last year the eleventh district was composed of Aitkin, Brainerd, Crosby, Ironton, Little Falls, Mole, Pine River, Staples and Wadena. This year eight more towns have been added to the eleventh district. They are Backus, Menahga, New York Mills, Pillager, Riverton, Sebeka and Verndale.

At the annual meeting of the council to be held here soon each of the sixteen towns will be represented and the athletic program for the year worked out. Officers will be elected. This year debate and declamation will be under the same officers as the athletics in the eleventh district.

In their first appearance as mathematical champions of the American league, the Philadelphia Athletics were beaten by St. Louis, 3 to 2. Al Crowder held the A's to two hits, both of which came in the fourth. Fox's homer accounted for both runs.

Washington beat Detroit, 10 to 9, in the only other game of the day.

Philadelphia at Pittsburgh.
Boston at Cincinnati.
No other games scheduled.

REPORTS VERIFY POWER OF STAPLES HIGH ON GRID FIELD

PREPARED TO GIVE BRAINERD HIGH STRONG COMPETITION NEXT FRIDAY

WADENA, RATED BETTER THAN STAPLES, PLAY LOCALS

SEPTEMBER 23

Reports from the Staples camp today dissipated previous reports that the Staples high grid team was under par this season.

Today's report which is considered authentic is to the effect that the team promises to be even stronger than last year.

Brainerd high meets the Staples eleven next Friday at Staples and in doing so will find strong opposition in the opening game of the season.

The Wadena team, opponents to the locals in the first home game September 25 are rated as even superior in strength and football ability than Staples.

Little Falls is to be given an even break this year in this district due to a team of "heavies" recruited from among an unusually fine turnout of speedy grid men.

Coach Warren Kasch concentrated today on instruction of fundamentals in the drill at the municipal field.

Nearing the Zero Hour

By HARDIN BURNLEY

FOOTBALLS soaring through the sun-scorched September air all but outdine the crack of Babe Ruth's homers and that autumnal stir which marks the prelude to baseball's world series. Most of the big gridiron squads have been working out already for a week or so—intensifying vacation by cantering around the field, skidding through sticky straw after banging down-tacking dummies, sending forth showers of perspiration when falling on the ball, etc., etc.

Zero hour is nearing for that first official kick-off. A glance at the various schedules forecasts a remarkably interesting season. Incidentally, which of these teams has the toughest schedules?

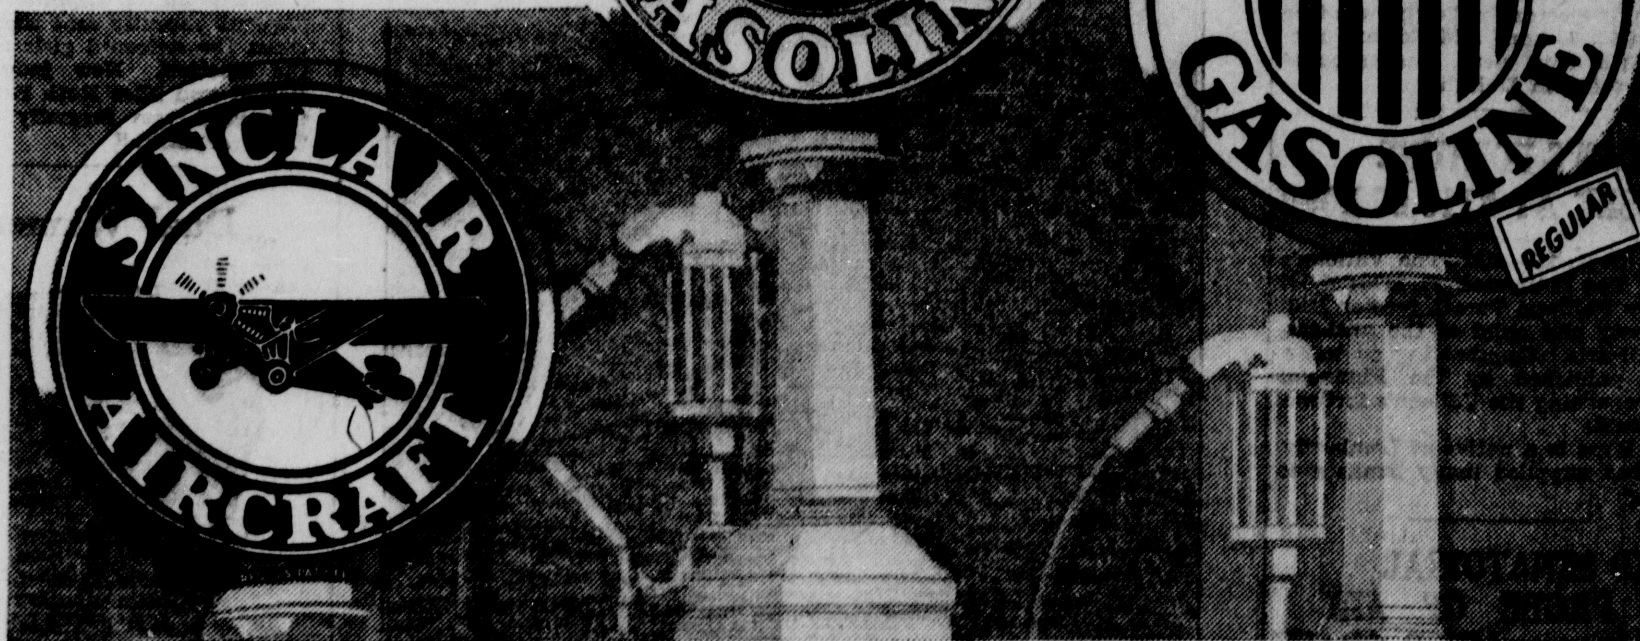

Notre Dame plays Indiana, Navy, Wisconsin, Carnegie Tech, Georgia Tech, Southern California, Northwestern and West Point on successive Saturdays—all on foreign fields!

Yale meets Vermont, Georgia, Brown, West Point, Dartmouth, Maryland, Princeton and Harvard—traveling to Athens to dedicate the new Georgia Stadium on Oct. 5. Army will battle Boston University, Gettysburg, Harvard, Yale, South Dakota, Illinois, Dickinson, Ohio Wesleyan, Notre Dame and Stanford—ten stamina-testing games for the Mule!

Fully a dozen big intersectional games starting with Yale and Georgia at Athens and concluding with Stanford vs. West Point at Palo Alto, will attract special attention this season.

Yes, the World Series is no more than a sideshow to those whose cars are well attuned to the bark of signals, the thump of kicks and the raucous thrill of the official whistle. So—his that line—pronto!

GRAIN STORAGE SITUATION IN N. W. PROBED

3 PRIVATE AND CONGRESSIONAL INVESTIGATIONS UNDER WAY

PROMISE FINDINGS SOON FARMERS TOLD BY POLITICAL LEADERS

St. Paul, Sept. 17.—(UP)—Three private and congressional investigations into the grain storage situation in the northwest were promised today by political and agricultural leaders of Minnesota and North Dakota.

The latest promise of action came today when Congressman Melvin J. Maas, St. Paul, announced he will appeal to the United States Department of Agriculture and the Federal Farm Board for a "rightening of present conditions." Other investigations were promised by G. W. Connell, president of the Minnesota Wheat Growers Association, and Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota.

Both Nye and Connell charged that northwest elevators are refusing farmer-owned wheat for storage in their efforts to beat down the price. They declared the "grain interests" were refusing to accept wheat on any but a cash sale basis.

Maas announced he will seek an investigation immediately upon his return to Washington.

MRS. LOIS PANTAGES FIGHTS AGAINST A PRISON SENTENCE

Los Angeles, Calif., Sept. 17.—(UP)—Fighting against a prison sentence Mrs. Lois Pantages, wife of the millionaire theatrical man, Alexander Pantages, testified today in her own behalf at her trial on a murder charge. She was not intoxicated on June 16 when her car struck Rokumoto's she said. Her machine did not scrape several others just before the fatal smash, she said.

As she told her story to the jury, Mrs. Teruko Rokumoto, widow of the dead Japanese, sat in a corner of the courtroom, sobbing quietly.

MODERN BATHROOM HAS QUILTED MATS

Since color came into its own, the bathroom has become the most attractive room in the house in thousands of homes. A useful accessory that can be made at little or no expense is the quilted bath mat, shown here, which is very much in vogue and at the same time extremely practical. Every bathroom should have a supply of at least three of them.

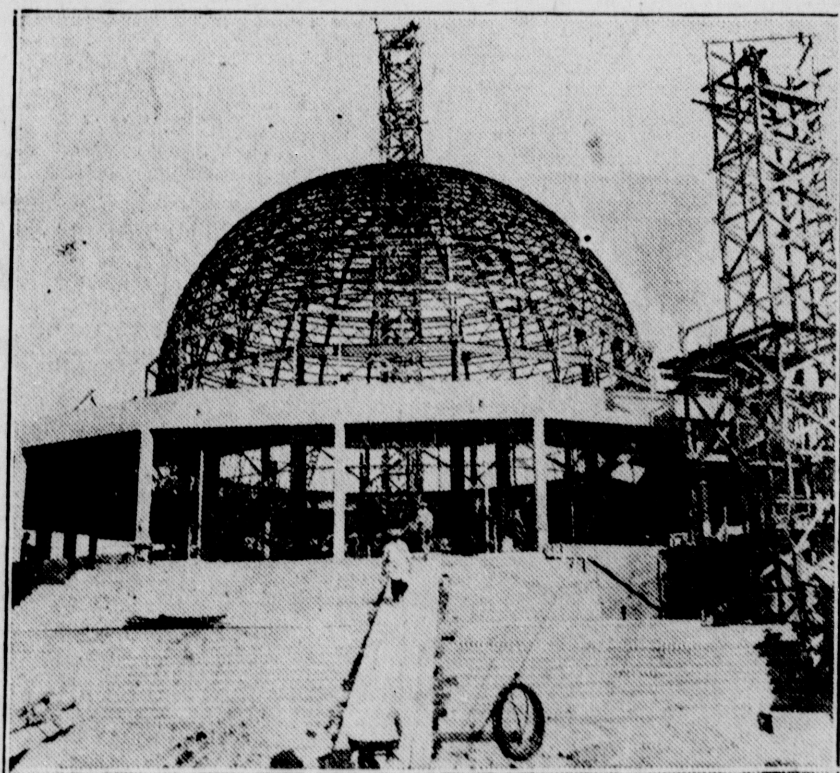

It is made from two flour bags, a piece of flannel or woolen goods for interlining and some bits of colored gingham which every scrap basket ought to be able to produce.

The mats may be round or oval. If round, they are about 24 inches across; if oval, they should measure about 24x30 inches. Place the interlining between the two pieces of flour bag material and stitch around by machine or hand two or three rows, half an inch apart. Bind the outer edges together with a bias strip of the gingham.

These mats would be ideal for selling at a church bazaar and the returns would be virtually all profit. If you have not a supply of flour bags on hand, they can usually be bought from a nearby baker for a few cents each. Remove the stamping by soaking it in kerosene overnight and then washing with warm water and soap.

Considering alleged improper procedure in the work of City Engineer R. T. Hall ordered the president to appoint a committee of five aldermen, one from each ward, to conduct an official investigation and report back to the next meeting.

The investigating committee named by Acting President W. J. Lyonais follows: V. F. Anderson, Andrew Wesley, Ernest Ritari, R. H. Paine, and Frank B. Johnson.

The Brainerd Public Library budget committee submitted a budget of $3,860 for the coming year. The suggested budget was referred to the finance committee for their consideration. It was reported that the finance committee would submit the budget for the coming year at the next council meeting.

Benson Brothers petitioned the council for the construction of an 8 inch lateral sewer in block 69 beginning at a manhole in South 6th street between Laurel and Maple streets, thence east a distance of approximately 190 lineal feet along the Northern Pacific railway mill spur, thence south along the approximate north and south center line of the block a distance of 158 lineal feet. On motion the city engineer was instructed to proceed with the work by day labor.

City Engineer Campbell estimated the work would cost $478.

On the recommendation of the street committee, the city engineer was instructed to proceed with the grading of Bluff avenue one block west of Evergreen avenue at a cost not to exceed $150 and to prepare an assessment roll for such work.

The council ordered an assessment levy covering the construction of lateral sewer A5B district No. 5, improvement No. 693 amounting to $2,838.96. The sewer was completed in July 1925, the assessment to be levied on 1140 feet of property in blocks 21, 22, 27, 28, and 29, Schwartz addition.

On motion of Aldermen Ernest Ritari and Harry Cregar the city engineer was instructed to construct a guard rail on 11th and 9th streets south between Pine and Quince streets.

On motion of Aldermen Cregar and Ritari the council adopted a resolution that Rosewood street between 8th and 10th streets be graded as established by the profile furnished by the city engineer, the cost to be approximately $250.

The city engineer was instructed to install pipes for future catchbasins in the 13th street sewer.

BLACKMER IS HELD IN CONTEMPT OF COURT

Washington, Sept. 17.—(U.P.)—Harry M. Blackmer, former oil official who moved to France and refused to return to testify in the Fall-Sinclair Tea Pot Dome conspiracy trial, was today held in contempt of court and fined $300,000 on each of two counts were ordered.

The woman who still has unfilled jars on her upper shelves should hasten to fill them while Yuma Elberta peaches are still on the market and at their best.

Home-canners have found this year that Yakima peaches have been their best allies. Since sugar prices are lower than they have been for years, the resulting desire to "put fruit in jars" has caused many housewives to make Yakima peaches their major fruit.

Though peach crops in other sections have been poor, an excellent crop of canning peaches has been shipped from the Yakima valley. These have been principally the fine Elberta and Hal varieties, excellent for canning as well as for fresh use.

Quick work is necessary to take advantage of the Elberta crop before it leaves the markets.

BRAINERD'S ODDEST STORY OF TODAY

The old adage of a man selling a better mousetrap and of having the public track a path to his door has been illustrated by D. D. Schroeder who has the territory for a line of traps which are proving a wonderful success.

Not content with his home business, Mr. Schroeder had a concession at the State Fair where he sold 2,066 mouse traps. He has also had concessions at ten or more county fairs and has three more to make.

BRAINERD 25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

September 17, 1904

Brainerd is to have a new up-to-date dry goods store. H. F. Michael, of Duluth is in the city and has leased the Grandmeyer store building on Front street and about October 15 will open up with a complete new line of dry goods, including a suit department. Mr. Michael is making arrangements for fixtures which will be the finest in the city and will leave in a day or two for the east to select his stock. Mr. Michael has had wide experience in the mercantile business, having spent the past five years in the best stores in St. Paul and Duluth, and he is a hustler.

There was a meeting last night of the football enthusiasts and they organized for the coming year and elected Russell Cass manager and Leo White captain. The team will be known as the "Ex-1903 High School Team." They will commence practicing at once and expect to have some good games before snow flies. There is some excellent material for the team this year and they expect to go up against some pretty hard propositions.

Hazel Vivian, the seven months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Cole, of Fourth avenue N. E., died last evening of cholera infantum. The funeral will occur from the house tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment at Evergreen cemetery.

A young man, unmarried, by the name of Adolph Shaaf, has brought suit in the courts at St. Paul against the Northern Pacific railway company and is not at all modest in his demands, for he sues to recover $15,000 for personal injuries. The plaintiff in the case worked at the shops until last October, nearly a year ago now, and one day while employed as a machinist he got his hand caught in a lathe and it was badly mangled. He was taken to the N. P. hospital where he was treated for months and had considerable trouble, particularly as blood poisoning set in.

The little two year old child of Mr. and Mrs. R. Henning fell down a flight of stairs this morning and was quite badly bruised up, but upon examination it was found that the injuries were not at all serious.

Barthelme Film "Drag" Has Two Leading Ladies

Two leading ladies support Richard Barthelme in his latest First National picture, "Drag," which comes to the Lyceum theatre on Wednesday for three days.

One, Lila Lee, is a brunette; the other, Alice Day, is a blonde.

The blonde has the best of it at the start, for she marries the hero; but they do not live happily ever after. Too many "in-laws" is the cause. The bride puts her family first in all things, which leads to a great big opportunity of which the brunette takes advantage, and she comes in first at the finish.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

EDDIE REGAN, once a member of a New York gang, has escaped to Virginia, where he meets Marian Thorndike, Bernice Veressi, "gang girl," who was in love with Eddie, is forgotten in Eddie's dreams of Marian. Penfield Paradine, member of an aristocratic Southern family, whom Eddie befriends, dies and leaves Eddie all his possessions. Eddie declares his love to Marian, but she discourages him. She is thrown from her horse, and Tom Freeman, searching for her, finds her in Eddie's house, where she goes for help. He takes her home, and the next day Marian sends a note of thanks to Eddie for taking care of her. He goes to call on her, and the door is opened by her father. Freeman comes in while Eddie and Marian are having tea, and Marian tells Eddie she expects to marry Freeman. They leave the house together, and Tom tells Eddie to stay away from Marian. Eddie knows it will come to a crisis, but determines not to give Marian up without a struggle.

Now Go On with the Story

CHAPTER XX.

WHEN Fall came he would have enough wood cut and corded to bring in a sizeable sum of money. The money, though, was not important. With an out-reaching kind of intelligence he understood that effort, and effort only, counted. To Tobe, Eddie's efforts seemed superhuman. The old negro was used to the lackadaisical labors of Southern farmers and he looked, almost with fright, upon the Herculean industry of Eddie.

"Mistah Eddie, you is certainly gwine tear yerself apart wid dis yere goings on. All dis wuk ain't needed."

Eddie paused, his axe blade shining. "Got to keep busy, Tobe," he said, calmly. "Can't see no reason for it—lessen you got somethin' on yore mind." The old yellow-white eyes looked with a glimmer of shrewdness upon the sunburnt sweating face. Eddie paused sharply.

"What do you mean by that wise crack?"

A bland, studied impassiveness came over the black face. "Nuffin at all, suh—nuffin at all."

"What do you think is on my mind?" Eddie persisted. Tobe hesitated. "It ain't none of my business—"

The desire, the immediate necessity, for some sort of human understanding—even old Tobe's—strained in Eddie's breast. There were times when it seemed as though he must speak of Marian Thorndike or fall into the foolish habit of talking to himself. Tobe, heretofore, had been no consolation to him at all; sometimes it seemed as though the old negro, too, considered himself an alien there, an outsider.

"Come on, Tobe," Eddie almost pleaded. "You know something, don't you?"

Slowly the old negro nodded. "Ah knows the black woman what wuks in Miss Marian's kitchen. Ah hears 'round 'bout what goes on 'mongst the white folks. 'Scuse me, suh, but dey is saying dat Miss Marian an' her pappy had done had a whooping big fuss 'bout you comin' on de place, suh."

Eddie was swept with painful astonishment. He thought his own secrets locked up in his own breast and he was startled to find them common property. But there was a thrill, too—almost happiness—in Tobe's news. If Marian and her father had quarreled about him it must mean that she had ranged herself on his side of any controversy.

"What did you hear, Tobe? Listen. Why don't you come out of your shell and tell me everything you know? Here we are both working on this farm and you ought to feel friendly toward your boss. I've treated you all right, haven't I?"

The old negro nodded solemnly. "Us is on one side of de fence, an' Mistah Thorndike and Mistah Freeman is on t'other; dat's all I knows."

"But you know something about Tom Freeman. Tell me what he is like? Is he considered to be a good fellow or not?"

"Mistah Freeman ain't a bad man an' he ain't a good man. What he is is a mean-tempered gennum whut's always boun' an' determined to have his own way. Everytime some othah young gennum comes hanging 'round Miss Marian, Mistah Freeman he done drives 'im off. One time Miss Marian think whut she'll marry Mistah Freeman an' den again she changes her mind. Her pappy wants her to marry him but she ain't gwine say yes and she ain't gwine say no till she makes up her own mind foh certain."

Eddie hesitated to ask the question that was burning in his mind. It was not easy for him to expose his feelings to one as simple and, apparently, as loyal as old Tobe. Still, he simply had to find out, if possible.

"Tobe, tell me this. Did that black woman friend of yours ever let on to you how Miss Marian felt about me?"

The black forehead wrinkled portentously in the effort at developing a balanced judgment.

"Miss Marian ain't said nuffin, to nobody 'bout you, suh. All I kin gather is whut dat old black woman picks up out of de air. An', it seems, it seems like that Miss Marian is actin' so mean to Mistah Freeman yere lately dat he is gittin' plumb crazy wid jealousy. Dar wuz a dance t'other night, and Miss Marian she balked lak a mule and wouldn't go wid 'im."

The strength of a giant suddenly surged in Eddie's arms and he felt as though he could, single handed, hew down the whole forest before dinner.

Eddie's mind, eager for hope, seized upon the husks of encouragement relayed to him by old Tobe. There were times when his aspirations seemed preposterous and egotistical—but, always, there was a secret, solid core of determination to carry on. But it did not necessarily mean happiness, and there were days when his heart was leaden.

He was famished for good news, and the servants' gossip furnished it. Marian had defended him against her father—she had refused to go dancing with Tom Freeman. Adding these reliable rumors together, the results looked as though he had an established place in her regard. If he chose to be optimistic, he could picture himself rapidly attaining the heights. But common sense checked his fervid speculation. Most likely she was merely standing up for him through a sense of justice.

"Don't get too cheery yet a while," he cautioned himself. "You are still a dark horse to get off to a bad start—a hundred to one shot."

But the instinct in him made him cling with feverish desperation to his slim chance.

Two weeks of heavy manual labor had passed since his first and last call at the Thorndike home. He had thrown himself violently into physical toil with the spiritualized idea that he might attain some mystic purification and strength through redoubled toil. Work became a passion with him. He was a zealot, a fanatic castigating himself with slave-like exacting of the body. But, after all, he was no medieval penitent to scourge himself uselessly. He was a young man desperately in love and, after a time, reverted back to the inevitable human longings of his type.

"All these noble ideas are O. K.," he confessed to himself. "But I need something else. I need to look at her face."

His steady labors, though, had done one thing for him—his fibrils were more closely knit and his mind seemed to have a steadier poise. There was a feeling in his nerves that he had ascended to a higher pitch than ever.

No word from her had come to him directly. He wondered if she was seeing much of Tom Freeman, but there was satisfaction in the report that she had broken an engagement with his rival. Tobe brought in a piece of gossip about Freeman.

"Mistah Freeman went to town last week an' got himself dazed drunk," Tobe reported.

Eddie was amazed at the underground telegraph that seemed to exist among the colored folks. They knew, apparently, everything the white people did and were surprisingly alert to guess at significant actions.

Again it was Tobe who brought him more suggestive information. Marian's father and mother, the negro informed him, were absent now for a few days from the county, visiting in Richmond. Marian and the two negro women servants were keeping the house.

Eddie threw off the disagreeable knowledge that Mr. Thorndike did not want him on the place and determined to call on Marian. He needed to see her was a hunger he had resisted too long.
